ISSUES

The year to date median home sales price in Missoula County has risen to $250,000. This is an all-time high, and well beyond what a median income family can afford. In a September 4, 2016 article in the Missoulian, UM chief economist Pat Barkey was quoted as saying that the housing supply was low because of restrictions on development, and that for prices to go down, developers need to be able to build large subdivisions for a relatively low cost. In 2014 and 2015, only two subdivisions were approved in Missoula County. This session, the legislature will consider policies that affect the ability of working families to afford a home.

1. Missoula County is treated as a closed basin, meaning that no new appropriations of water are allowed without first acquiring an existing water right for mitigation through the DNRC permitting process. This process is unpredictable, lengthy, and often cost prohibitive. As a result, exempt wells had long been used to provide water for new homes, businesses, and industry outside of Mountain Water's service area. As long as the wells were not physically connected, they were exempt from the mitigation requirement. Exempt wells have a priority date and are subject to calls from senior water users. They account for less than 0.5 percent of the water appropriated in Montana each year.

A 2014 district court decision has severely limited their use by requiring DNRC to treat unconnected exempt wells as a "combined appropriation," requiring an existing water right for mitigation in Missoula County. This has drastically limited the ability of developers to build subdivisions with homes that working families can afford. Should the legislature codify this new definition of combined appropriation from the court decision, or should the legislature codify the previous definition that was in place for over 20 years?

I am not sure of the accuracy of all the facts in the above question regarding whether all of Missoula County is treated as a closed basin. However, it is my belief that if the Montana Legislature is going to codify anything, it should codify what is the current status of the law unless there is a strong reason to want to change that status.

2. Governing bodies are required by state case law to take a "hard look" when examining certain subdivision review criteria. Experience has shown that it is difficult for local governing bodies to know when they have applied the hard look standard. As the standard is currently interpreted by the courts, someone can always claim the governing body didn't look hard enough. This can result in an unfortunate situation where a governing body's conscientious review is overturned based on a distortion of the record or insignificant factors. If elected, would you support legislation that makes it easier for governing bodies to meet the hard look standard?

Without seeing any specific legislation that is proposed, I am unable to comment on whether I would support the legislation. However, I do believe that the Montana code should be specific and provide details to local governments, as necessary, so that the law can appropriately and consistently be enforced. I support that type of legislation.

3. The Legacy Ranch court decision from Ravalli County is spurring changes to local subdivision phasing and extension rules in Missoula County and other jurisdictions. In Missoula County, the rules will be changed to shorten the approval period, restrict extensions, and require additional public hearings for extensions. This will add uncertainty and increased costs to an already expensive development process. It will also bring about lesser quality neighborhoods by denying developers the ability to plan for street grid connectivity, large interior parks, sidewalks, and other infrastructure. This session, the legislature may consider clarifying subdivision law to provide governing bodies a better framework for handling phased developments. If elected, would you support legislation that extends the approval period, clarifies that phased developments are allowed, and provides a more streamlined process for governing bodies to review extensions?

Without seeing any specific legislation that is proposed, I am unable to comment whether I would support the legislation. However, in general terms, I support clear laws that provide unambiguous guidance to governing bodies regarding what process is to be used and what is allowed during that process. This provides all parties with a clear knowledge of what is expected of them and what procedures they are to utilize.
